In 2011, Floyd Memorial Library cardholders borrowed 963 digital books. Last year, they borrowed 3824 digital books, both audio and eBooks, an increase of almost 300%. They downloaded them to their tablets and MP3 players, read them on their computers, and listened to them in their cars. The digital revolution has found its way to the very tip of Long Island. We are projecting a 20% increase in digital borrowing next year. eBooks are only a small part of the collection you can use from your home computer. We have Learning Express Test Preparation and lots of research tools available right on our website.
